JASHNA-COLLEGE DAY EVENT

The primary goal of the college day event was to create a platform that fosters a sense of community, celebrates academic achievements, and enhances overall student engagement. Through a variety of activities, the event aimed to improve students' skills in areas such as teamwork, leadership, communication and event management.

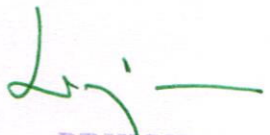

Students were divided into committees responsible for different aspects of the event, such as decoration, logistics, cultural performances, and hospitality.

Collaboration within and across committees enhanced students' teamwork skills. They learned to work cohesively, delegate responsibilities, and appreciate the value of diverse contributions.

Students in leadership roles developed decision-making skills, learned to manage resources efficiently, and gained experience in leading a team to toward a common goal

INDUCTION

Stepping onto a larger campus, surrounded by unfamiliar faces and customs, can leave even the most prepared student feeling adrift in the first year. An induction programme helped them familiarize themselves with the campus, faculty, peers, and academic systems, leading to a smoother transition and reduced anxiety.

Through motivational programmes, mentorship programmes, and ice breaking activities helped students build connections with their classmates and seniors, combating feelings of isolation and fostering a sense of belonging.

Successfully organizing and hosting an induction programme can be a confidence booster for students. Seeing their hard work pay off and witnessing the positive impact on their juniors can increase their self-confidence and self-esteem

In addition to these general skills, students can also develop specific skills depending on the roles they take on during the programme. For example students responsible for designing activities can develop their creative thinking skills, while those handling logistics can improve their organizational skills.

Overall, organising an induction programme can be a transformative experience for students, helping them develop valuable skills that will benefit them throughout their academic and professional lives.

NOBLE WORLD RECORD

PAPER BAG PREPARATION

Students of Kailash Women's College attempted to make paper bags in an effort to raise awareness about the dangers of plastic pollution. The students used newspapers to make the bag. The attempt was successful, and the students were able to set a Nobel world record. 2000 students participated in the Guinness World Record and 53000 paper bags were prepared. At the end of the day the juries announce that our students created the Noble World Record

TALENTIA

The vibrant halls of Kailash Women's College buzzed with infectious energy as Talentia, a talent fest organized by the college students, unfolded. It wasn't just any competition; it was a bridge between youthful potential and nurturing encouragement. The air crackled with anticipation as eager 6th and 7th graders from various schools poured in, ready to showcase their diverse talents.

Outcomes:

- Self-confidence and self-esteem: Witnessing the positive impact of Talentia on participants instilled a sense of accomplishment and boosted their self-confidence.
- Creativity and innovation: Designing engaging activities, workshops, and entertainment options pushed their creative boundaries and problem-solving skills.
- Social responsibility and community engagement: Contributing to the community by providing a platform for young talent fostered a sense of social responsibility and civic engagement.

Overall, Talentia wasn't just an event for school students; it was a powerful learning experience for Kailash Women's College students. It allowed them to develop as leaders, communicators, mentors, and responsible citizens, preparing them for the challenges and opportunities that lie ahead.

APPRECIATION DAY

On Appreciation Day students were extended their deepest gratitude to their faculty members for their dedication, passion, and commitment to the success of our students.

- Appreciation Day at Kailash Women's College wasn't just a heart-warming celebration for the faculty; it was a hidden training ground for the students themselves, a stage where they honed diverse skills under the warm glow of gratitude. Here's how:
- From brainstorming creative ideas to collaborating across departments, Appreciation Day fostered incredible communication and teamwork. Students stepped outside their usual circles, exchanging ideas with peers and professors, learning to listen actively, express themselves clearly, and build consensus.
- Standing before classmates and professors, sharing their appreciation through songs, speeches, or skits, was a nerve-wracking but ultimately rewarding experience. Students faced their fears, conquered stage fright, and honed their public speaking skills, learning to captivate an audience and deliver with confidence.
- Beyond these tangible skills, Appreciation Day instilled in the students a sense of ownership and responsibility. It was their day, their gift to the faculty, a testament to their appreciation and respect. This, in turn, fostered a deeper sense of belonging to the college community, a feeling of being valued and empowered contributors.
